Mr. Chaman then urged the adoption of the last resolution, to cut loose from the Suffolk system of redeemption at once, and let no State have any control over us. Let us redeem within ourselves until we can devise some remedy for the present financial distress. Cut loose now, and let the Bank Commissioners take care of our banks.

Mr. Nichols then, upon the suggestion that the Bank Commissioners had no jurisdiction in the matter, and that it would be better to adopt and perfect some feasible method of relief before the "cutting loose" operation took place, withdrew his motion, and a general debate was had upon the resolution.

Mr. Hives, of Tolland, again took the floor, to explain the reasons why the committee were induced to report the "cutting loose" resolution. It was mainly this.—The New England bills circulate largely in the West; the New York bills do not, and the resolt is that the New York bills do not, and the resolt is that the New York banks, through their agents, make great efforts to obtain our New England bills at the West, and everywhere else, at a heavy rate of discount, and then send them to Suffolk for redemption in gold or its equivalent. This is a shave we ought not to submit to, especially when these same New York and Boston banks do not pay specie themselves. Why then should they compel us to do what is equivalent to paying specie on Every bill of ours that they get hold of? Still, in view of all this, he was not enough of a bank man to say whether it would be advisable to break loose from the Suffolk system. He was not certain that the advantage to be gained was equivalent to the loss to be incurred. He would leave the question for other and more experienced financiers to settle.

Mr. Williams, of Norwich, was doubtful in regard to the result of such a surveillary at this important crisis in our in Sin. Brokessak, in which we are all laboring in tot one of our swin production. It has been forced upon us from without the State. Our business men generally wish to meet their obligations, but there are a few who are making no efforts to do so. The business community demand an expansion to enable these to meet their obligations, but the banks cannot grant it, for their bills will got once to the Suffolk Bank for rederaption, and we can't stand that. A Clearing Homse system would be less rapid than the Suffolk system, and our banks could then increase their ions, and enable the business men to neet their obligations, otherwise the banks cannot help the business community. If this new system of redemption shall accomplish this object, then it will be the means of great good to the business community, and save us from a dire calamity.

Mr. Kinsantar, of Waterbury, having submitted some remarks unfavorable to the new project, as being but a temporary relief at beat, and expressed a desire to have the Convention proceed in a cautious manner, and satisfy themselves as to the result of the proposed measure before they pledged themselves to any particular course,.

Gov. Hentars said the view taken by the gentlemen from Waterbury was a very narrow one. We come here not to do something for the relief of the people behind us. There is no money among the people, and we must give them some, and at once. New England did not suspend first, but New York took the lead, aithough ach meant to force us to suspend first. But we have not practically suspensied, for we redeem our circulation in gold in Boston. The gentleman thinks the measure proposed is intended but for a brief space of sime, but he is greatly mistakes; it will be for one year at least. I go for some measure to get us out of the present difficulty, and to relieve the ambarrassanus of the business community.

Mr. Sexer, of Fairfield county, proposed to accept of the resolutions, and thus cut loose from the Suffolk system, and then adjourn so some feature day, in order to give an opportunity to devise some race deducte plan of action for the future.

Mr. Kiedenick, of Waterbury—The idea of abandoning specie redemption is some form is preposterous. I am aware that necessity knows no law; but we must be bound by somethage—we must have some standard equivalent to specie redemption. To abandon the redemption of our bills exist constern of our own banks is impolitic and unwise, to say the least. The people who have breathed the breath of life into these banks are crying aloud for help from them, and they will not be satisfied without relief. We know that the banks, as well as the business mea of the community—and we must do somethag to relieve the wants of the business community. If we can stop the drainage of our banks in consequence of the Suffolk system, we gain a great good to begin with. Then, if we can establish a Clear og House in Hartford that will not be taking our life bling from us, it seems to me to be desirable. Bet whether that would be be sufficient to remody the evil of which we complain, I certainly cannot say.

Mr. Dexnax, one of the Bank Commissioners, would not pass the resolutions positively. The Convention is not by any means as large as it should be; and to adopt the resolations, and thus create two systems of banking in Connecticut, is certainly not desirable. We should thoroughly digest a plan before we adopt it. There should be concert of action. We should not break loose from a system of redemption that is equivalent to specie. I hope the Convention will not positively adopt the resolutions, but simply break loose from the Suffolk system. Something must be done, for some of the Banks in Connecticut cannot survive the drainage upon them in consequence of this system, for thirty days.

Mr. Transuzi, of the Charter Oak Bank, moved that the resolutions be signed by the President and Secretary of the Convention, and sent to every bank in the State, requesting them to appoint delegates to meet in Convention in Hartford on Tuesday next, November 10, at 2 o'clock P. M., to act upon the unfinished susiness of the Convention.

o'clock P. M., to act upon the unfinished business of the Convention.

This was amended at the suggestion of Mr. Perranses, of Norwich, and Friday next, at 2 o'clock P. M., fixed upon as the day for the meeting of the next Convention. Mr. P. continued—If we don't provide relief for the people, and that speedily, we shall find the people taking hold of this matter in earnest, and the result will be that at the meeting of the next Legislature we shall be obliged to reform our banking system, entirely; or at least so far as to conform to the system adopted in New York, viz: make every bank secure its circulation by State stocks. This is the reason why the New York bills are now worth a 1/4 per cent more than Connecticut bills.

At this state of the proceedings a "panic" broke out bills are now worth a ½ per cent more than Connecticut bills.

At this state of the proceedings a "panic" broke out in the Convention. One party clamored for the adoption of the resolutions, and the other opposed them strenuously. In the midst of the hubbub a delegate sprang to his feet, and by a single remark brought the Convention to a dead halt, as suddenly as if a thunderboth had struck the building. His remark was this:—"if don't believe the delegates present are authorized by the banks which they represent to adopt the report of the committee, or any other specific mode of procedure." There was a dead calm for a moment, during which the delegates seemed to be aware for the first time that they were called together by nobody knew whom; perhaps by some wag, or possibly by a cunning speculator, who desired to get a daguerreoty pe view of the "panic faces" of the bank men of this State, with which to preface an original work, to be entitled "The Financial Crisis of 1857, illustrated;" the whole to be issued in one splendid calf edition, uniform with the work entitled "Peep of Day," or "Light Breaking in the East," to be furnished to subscribers only.

This breathing spell over, the Convention concluded to postpone operations until the next meeting of the Convention, and a committee of live was appointed by the Chair to prepare and report business to the next meeting. The committee consists of the following gentlemen:—S. Hartwell, Bridgeport; Wm. A. Buckingham, Norwich; G. F. Davis, Hartford; E. C. Scranton, New Haven; George M. Ives, Stafford.

MEETING OF THE BOSTON BOARD OF TRADE.

[From the Daily Advertiser, Nov. 5.]

An adjourned meeting of the Boston Board of Trade was held for discussion at Mercantile Hall last evening, Hon. George B. Upton, vice president, in the chair. The journal of the previous meeting was read by the secretary.

Mr. HENJANIN CALLENDER, from the committee appointed at the last meeting, reported a series of resolutions for the consideration of the meeting, as follows:—

Resolved, That we recognise the influx of five hundred millions of gold during the last ten years, and the great expansion of the paper currency of the country, as great and constantly operating causes of the present commercial revulsion, acting as they have done to increase largely the prices of merchandise and other property, thus stimulating speculation, excessive trade both in domestic productions and foreign imports, and too large investments in railroads and other public works.

Resolved, That among the causes that exist for the present financial derangement and prostration of business, is the difficulty of making collections from the interior, particularly from the West.

Resolved, That this subject is one that should immediately invite the attention of this meeting, in hope that its discussion may point out the way of moving the immense crops of the West to the Atlantic cities, and thus furnish exchange that will produce one remedy, and that immediately.

Resolved, That among the means of avoiding a recurrence of our present difficulties, we would recommend additional restrictions upon the bank issues, abolition of

Resolved, That among the means of avoiding a recurrence of our present difficulties, we would recommend additional restrictions, upon the bank issues, abolition of small bills, the limitation of their loans and circulations, and an increase of their specie reserve.

Mr. CALLENDER stated that Mr. William B. Reynolds, a member of the committee, had prepared a series of propositions which the committee did not deem best to adopt; but he moved that that gentleman be requested to lay them before the meeting.

Mr. Reynoles stated that he had embodied his views upon the crisis in the following propositions:—

1. That while banks of discount and deposit, if established on sound principles, may be multiplied to any extent with avantage to the public, it is advisable that the business of issuing notes payable on demand, should be entirely separate and distinct from other general banking business, and that the power of making and issuing paper money should be withdraw from banks whose principal business it is to loan money.

2. That the power of furnishing the State with currency should be exercised by the State for the benefit of the public at large, and that the profits on the circulation of bank notes should be applied, (after deducting the expenses attendant upon the issue,) towards a reduction of the public taxes.

5. That in lieu of the one hundred and seventy-five banks of issue now existing in the State of Massacusetts, each acting for itself and each furnishing its portion of

3. That in lieu of the one hundred and seventy-five banks of issue now existing in the State of Massacusetts, each acting for itself and each furnishing its portion of the currency, there should be but one bank or depart-ment of issue, managed by directors or commissioners appointed by the State for account of the public, and that the business of these officers should be confined to the is-suing of notes against public securities and gold builton without any banking or discounting privileges; these to be left where they now are, with the banks and with indi-viduals.

4. That in establishing the relative proportions between the issues of bank notes and the securities and buillon held by the issue department for their redemption, the perfect convertibility of the bank note into specie at all times should be secured beyond a shadow of doubt, which, it is generally admitted, may be done by holding two thirds of undoubted securities and one third of buillion for the amount of notes in circulation. The bank note should be legal tender anywhere, except by the issue department.

5. That the banks of discount and deposit, instead of issuing their own notes as at present, should be furnished with notes by the departments of issue against a deposit of public securities and bullion in the proportions already mentioned, or such others as may be fixed by law, and that, to compensate the banks in part for the loss of the prefits on their circulation, they should be relieved from mentioned, or such others as may be fixed by law, and that, to compensate the banks in part for the loss of the prefits on their circulation, they should be relieved from the State tax of one per cent on their capital.

6. That the usury laws, which are so generally disregarded as to be almost a dead letter, should be abolished entirely, and the banks, as well as individuals, be at liberty to raise and lower the rate of discount according to circumstances, as is done by the banks of England and France; the legal rate of interest to remain as heretofore, at 6 per cent, when no other is stipulated.

7. That the accumulation of the public revenue in the hands of government, whereby large amounts of bottloin are liable to be abstracted from the usual channels of trade, tends to produce a contraction of the currency, a pressure upon the money market, and a high rate of interest, resulting in the most disastrous consequences to those who are thus deprived of the usual facilities for carrying on their operations.

Mr. RIX NOIDS SUBMITTED SOME INTEREST.

Mr. CALLENDER rose to support the resolutions of the committee. He read an extract from a gentleman at the West, recommending the East to take active measures to forward the Western produce to a market, to secure the payment of the debts of Western merchants. He thought the suggestions of the letter met the difficulty of the times, and he favored the project of furnishing money for the destread object. The sum of $50,000 employed in this way will move $250,000 worth of produce, and when the wheels begin to move, the plan will be successfully developed.

The Callender replied that they could not now forward their produce as they had formerly done, because of the derangement of credit and the loss of confidence. Our paper, which was formerly their currency, is now with drawn.

Mr. Toward S. Tourc could not conceive why a people who have just what we want, and are in our debt, should not give it to us. B in the moral obligation of the debtor to pay his debt; if not in gol to a specie currency—a mixed, convertible system is the better.

Mr. James S. Wingin was opposed to the idea of lending the power of the Board of Trade to any single branch of business. The West must pay its debts, like others. We must aid one another, and must help the banks to help us, by granting them such favors as it is in our power to do. We must put our faces against usury, and against curbstone brokers.

The resolutions were further discussed by Masers. J. C. Converse, Charles G. Narro, Esq., (who deprecated the discussion about banks, a subject which should be left to the Legislature, at least unless we have the other side). Hon, William Sturgis, who spoke by invitation, and whose views of the cause of the present crisis were received with manifest interest.

Hon, Arasa Waksen, of North Brookfield, amrated the success of his firm in 1837 in collecting their debts from all parts of the consented the merchants of festion to pursue the same course now. Mr. Walker main anned that such crises as the present one will always result at regular intervals just as keag as the present system of credit and currency continues. He urged his antitors to mashify the system of credit and to strengthen the spece basis.

The resolutions of the committee were laid upon the table, and at 10 o'clock the meeting dissolved.

Some system of credit, it seems to me, is necessary for the prosperity of every department of business. In fact, credit and civilization are co-exal. There never has been a civilized country without commend the place corresponding to our experience; but some system of credit must always exist. Even in the system was a necessity. VIRGINIA.

TOBACCO MANUFACTURERS AND THE NEW YORK
MERCHANTS.

[From the Petersburg (Va.) Intelligencer.]

The business of manufacturing tobacco is carried on to an immense extent in Virginia, and constitutes one of our most important interests. It is, in fact, a conspicuous element of our commerce, and contributes in easy times largely to our prosperity. Richmond, Lynchburg, Potersburg and Danville are the principal places in which this business is conducted, and before the present crists commenced its havoe there was an aggregate of near two limitered tobacco factories in these four towns, all in operation, turning out a heavy quantity of work every week, and giving constant and renuncrative employment to scores of white men in a supervisory capacity, and thousands of slaves and free negroes. At Clarksville and Farniville, also, are numerous establishments of the kind, besides others at different points of the interior, conduct-besides others at different points of the interior, conducted by enterprising individuals. From this statement it is clear that the manufacture of tobacco is a business essentially connected with the weifare of the State, and should therefore be considered worthy of a high place in public regard, especially when, under the disastrous influences of a general monetary revulsion like the present, it is serriously disturbed, embaranssed and endangered.

Attention has becently been called to the errors and imperfections of the system upon which this business has heretofore been conducted, and the expediency, if not the necessity, of reforming it is now under discussion. We have always been of the opinion that the long prevalent mode of selling the manufactured article was at variance with all sound principles of trade, and tended to expose the manufacturers to bazards forminable enough to keep them incessantly in a state of uneasiness, if not of alarm.
Their whole fortunes are in the hands and at the mercy of distant agents, who are surrounded by excitements and temptations of a changeter even in ordinary times to involve them in outside and impredent adventures, inwhich their com as well as the consignors' interests may sent in radically wrong, innomech as it is based upon aprinciple which seems to us to be irreconcilable with the sica of that full and direct responsibility and security which enter into every legitimate merantile transaction, and form the bend of conticlence between the parties. And what is the system of which we are speaking? It is this, a manufacturer in Virginia ships 100 packages of tobaccoto a commission merchant accepts and returns the draft to the consignor, who goes to the bank and gets it discounted—not, however, without his conn endorsition, which makes him liable to pay the draft at maturity if the acceptance upon space, which is not apyable in least
